Model Refrigerators

The "Model" is a moderate priced Refrigerator, but compares favorably with many of the more expensive ones.

It is made of hardwood, finished in golden oak, has heavy solid bronze locks and hinges, and is lined with galvanized iron, while the insulation is superior to many higher priced refrigerators.

The linings are made of metal, and are removable for cleaning. This is an especially valuable feature. Door on provision chamber and lid on both lined with metal. In order that the drip pan may be readily drawn out or placed in position, the "Model" is constructed with a swing base.

Moisture or liquids cannot get into the woodwork and create sour odors, because the interior lining of the "Model" is cerite and the metal bottom acts as a preventive.

Sad Drowning Accident.

A distressing and fatal drowning accident occurred on Wednesday afternoon last, when Charles Allison, second son of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Simpson, aged 8 years and 10 months, was drowned at the mouth of Waskasoo creek, about six o'clock. The little fellow was the pride and joy of his parents and the admiration of pupils at school. Fearless, ever bubbling over with fun and mischief, his young life has been forfeited to the very daring that made him conspicuous among his fellow schoolmates. The particulars of the accident, which appeared in the Advocate, were as follows:

The two sons of F. S. Simpson, and the two young sons of Mr. Galbraith, neighbors in Waskasoo Park, came home from school, as their custom was, along Waskasoo to its junction with the Red Deer river. At the latter point, they went in bathing, though none of them could swim. They knew the ground well, but the river water had raised and flowed back into the creek mouth, making it deeper than usual. Three of the boys were out and dressing, but Allan Simpson, always plucky and daring, kept wading out and at last got out as far as the outer end of a raft tied to a platform on the west side. It seems likely that he either lost his hold on the end of the raft and commenced treading water, or that he purposely left the deeper water at the end of the raft only to get into still deeper water on his way up stream, where he was usually able to feel the bottom. The other boys soon realized that he was in difficulties, and they plunged in up to their necks, but the current had carried him still further out, and he gradually sank from their view. The older boy then ran home and gave the alarm. Mr. N. W. Gray, of Mt. Allison University, New Brunswick, who is doing agency work in the west, and happened to be at Mrs. Simpson's, rushed over to the creek with the lad, and, though he could not swim, managed, after getting into deep water once or twice, to find his way round and found the body with his feet in the riley water. He and Philip Galbraith, who had also arrived and was assisting in the search, lifted it out, and Miss Gibson and Dr. Peterson were there almost immediately, but the body had been in the water 10 or 12 minutes, and though an hour and a half was spent in the attempt to resuscitate the poor lad, it was without success. The blow is a very sore one to the distressed parents, especially as it is only a month ago that Mr. Simpson lost his sister, Mrs. Cumming, of Olds.

The funeral services were held on Saturday afternoon from the family residence to the Red Deer cemetery, Rev. Mr. Brown officiating. There were a number of nice wreaths from friends and the casket was covered with flowers, some of them silent tokens of regard from little girl friends in the school class. The Red Deer Club and classmates of his room in the public school sent wreaths.

Masonic Installation.

Kenilworth Lodge, No. 89, A.F. & A.M., installed officers on Friday evening last, the ceremony being performed by District Deputy Grand Master, Bro. W. R. Wilson, assisted by P.D.D. G. M. Bro. Winn. The officers were as follows: W.M.—Bro. W. L. Gibson S.W.—Bro. H. H. Humber J.W.—Bro. W. T. Coote Treas.—Bro. J. H. Menzies Sec.—Bro. J. G. Gillespie S.D.—Bro. Geo. Rothnie J.D.—Bro. K. M. Byers S.S.—Bro. J. Malcolm I.G.—Bro. F. Turnbull Tyler—E. D. Smith

At the conclusion of the ceremony the company sat down to a banquet provided for the occasion to which all did ample justice, after which a number of addresses were given by members of the order.

HILL END PICNIC.

The Ladies' Aid of Hill End will hold their annual picnic at the grove of Leonard Hornett on July 8th, all day. All kinds of sports will be indulged in. There will be a football match, baseball, pony races and other sports. Everybody invited.

There will be interesting developments at the Red Deer store next week. Keep your eye on the papers.

Baseball.

Red Deer out batted, out fielded and out played Alix at every stage of the game on Saturday and the boys deserve all kinds of bouquets. The team had hard work getting to Alix, being too late for a game on Friday and being a man short on Saturday. Mr. Daniels, of Lacombe, kindly filled in at left field and the game was on, the line-up being as follows: Alix: Slinger, 1st, Murray, 2b and p, Don Greene, 3b, Pitman, s s and p, Hall, 2b and p, Smith, c, McGuire, r f, Dor, Greene, 1 f, Peterson, c f. Red Deer: Martin, 1b, Turner, c, Washburn, p, Mann, s s, Edgington, 2b, Whitley, c f, Evans, 3b, Ivan Greene, r f, Daniels, 1 f.

Mr. Martin went to bat first and smote Mr. Hall for a nice single and sauntered to first. Turner was retired while Martin stole second and Washburn brought Martin home. Mann and Edgington hit to the infield and were retired. Alix did a few stunts with the bat and with some slugging and a couple of errors got three men across the pan. In the second innings Mr. Hall got his and a little bit more. Whitley, Evans, Greene and Daniels all connected safely, Martin went out, short to first, Turner singled but was caught at second and Washburn flew out to centre field, but when the dust cleared away Red Deer had added four tallies. It was in the fourth innings that Alix looked like business again. Hall went down on an error, McGuire drew a pass, Peterson bunted and reached first and then the mighty Slinger came to bat. Two out and the bases full. Oh! The Red Deer boys were murmuring softly "Reilly, how we miss you," and the Alix fans were shrieking with delight. But alas, like his predecessor, the renowned Casey, he punctured the air three times and amid solemn silence he retired to the bench. Incidentally, Slinger was the man who would have defeated Red Deer if he had not been hurt last game—maybe.

The rest of the game was full of spectacular feats, but for lack of space cannot be told in detail. Special mention should be made, however, of Turner's work in throwing bases, and of Guy's stunts on second. Martin and Washburn were still there with the hitting, in fact everybody had their batting but Red Deer getting three hits in five times up.

The score was as follows: Red Deer 14 10 20 31 12 17 8 Alix 3 10 0 0 3 0 10 8 4

Summary: Earned runs, Red Deer 7, Alix 2; two base hits, Don Greene, Smith, Peterson, Daniels; struck out, by Washburn 8, by Hall 1, by Pitman 2, by Murray 1; bases on balls off Washburn 7, off Hall 2, off Pitman 2, off Murray 1; hit by pitcher, Washburn 1, Pitman 1; left on bases, Red Deer 8, Alix 7; double plays, Washburn to Martin, Edgington to Martin, Hall to Murray to Slinger; hits off Hall, 7 in three innings, off Pitman 2 in 2 1-3 innings, off Murray, 7 in 3 2-3 innings; sacrifice hits, Martin, Daniels, McGuire, Peterson.

Mr. Bell, the Alix manager, entertained the boys in first class style, arranging a dance for their benefit and showing them the best the town afforded.

Football.

Red Deer United journeyed to Didsbury on Friday last to play that team in the Central Alberta League. After a hard struggle Red Deer came out victorious by the score of 4-3 and returned rejoicing with the two points safely packed away in their grips. For Red Deer all the forwards played well especially in the first half, W. Krause and E. Halgren distinguished themselves in their respective positions, while McLennan in goal covered himself with glory and bruises. Geo. and Hutton (3) were the scorers for the winners.

The result was received with pleasure by football enthusiasts in town as a defeat meant our boys would be entirely out of the running for the shield; as it is they stand a good chance of winning it. The team lined up as follows: McLennan; Scott and Halgren; French, Krause and Leslie; Chisholm, Hewson, Hutton, Steadman and Geo.

The game with Innisfail yesterday afternoon resulted in a win for Red Deer by 3-1, thus placing Red Deer in the lead.

Keep your eye on the papers for later information regarding happenings at Gaetz & Gaetz next week.

Presentation to Principal McLean.

The Public and High Schools took official farewell of Principal W. J. McLean on Friday afternoon last, when the entire school met in the assembly hall to take part in a presentation to him of a handsome, solid gold watch. The gift was a spontaneous mark of esteem and good will from the pupils and teaching staff of the school, and from Inspector Boyce. The chair was taken by J. A. Carswell, chairman of the Board of Trustees, and short addresses were given by Geo. W. Greene for parents and children, A. R. Gibson and Miss Peterson for the teaching staff, and W. E. Payne and M. A. Munro for the trustees. Inspector Boyce also presented the three shields to the school.

After the pupils had joined in singing the Maple Leaf, "For Ever," the presentation was made by little Miss Alpha Parke, while Andrew Munro read the following address:

Red Deer, Alta., June 24, '10. Dear Mr. McLean:—

We, the inspectors, teachers, janitor and scholars of this school, assemble together to-day for the purpose of giving expression, both in word and deed, to the regard and esteem in which we hold you. It is fitting at this time, on the eve of your resignation, to meet and make known to you our deep regret that you are soon to leave us. Your relations with us were ever friendly, and full of encouragement. You have sought to fulfill your responsibilities towards us harmoniously and conscientiously. How well you have succeeded may not be fully manifest till the coming years bring the result of your labors to abundant fruitfulness, but, while waiting for that harvest, we avail ourselves of the present opportunity to give voice to those sentiments of regard and respect which we heartily consider to be your just due. We ask you to accept this parting gift as a token in tangible form of our deep regard. We trust that the hours, days and years measured out on the dial of this chronometer for you in the future, may mark off successive stages of success, prosperity and happiness in whatever course you may pursue in life's great eventful conflict.

After the presentation the pupils sang "For he's a jolly good fellow."

Principal McLean was visibly affected, and briefly replied. He had always tried to do his duty, and had a kindly regard for all the pupils of the school, and never allowed himself under any circumstances to bear a grudge or be unfair to a pupil of the school. He would willingly give a year of his life if he could restore one little face missing from the throng; he would willingly give a year of his life if he could have been on the bank of the stream and been privileged to risk his life for the little fellow, but it was not to be. He always loved his pupils far more than people gave him credit for doing, and he regretted very much severing his connection with Red Deer school where he had spent so many happy years. In bidding farewell to the pupils and staff, he thanked them for their kindness to him in the past, and for the little memento, which he would ever hold dear for old association's sake.

Proceedings closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

A Remarkable Prophecy About Canada.

Fifty-three years ago, Hon. W. H. Steward, then U. S. Senator from New York, made a summer trip to Canada, and sailed from Quebec to spend two months cruising in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and along the coast of Labrador. During his trip he kept a diary from which a wonderful prophecy about Canada has just been unearthed by Busy Man's Magazine. The prophecy in part reads as follows: "Hitherto, in common with most of my countrymen, as I suppose, I have thought Canada, or to speak more accurately north of the United States, easily detachable from the parent continent, but incapable of sustaining itself, and therefore ultimately, nay, right soon, to be taken in by the Federal Union, without materially changing or affecting the condition or development, I have dropped the opinion as a national conceit. I see in the British North America, stretching as it does across the continent from the shores of Labrador and Newfoundland to the Pacific, and occupying a considerable belt of the Temperate Zone, traversed equally with the United States by the lakes, and enjoying the magnificent shores of the St. Lawrence with its thousands of islands in the river and gulf—a region grand enough for the seat of a great empire. In its wheatfields in the west, its broad ranges of timber at the north, its inexhaustible lumber lands—the most extensive now remaining on the globe—its valuable fisheries and its yet undisturbed mineral deposits, I see the elements of wealth. I find its inhabitants vigorous, hardy, energetic, perfected by the Protestant religion and British constitutional liberty. I find them jealous of the United States and of Great Britain, as they ought to be; and therefore when I look at their extent and resources I know they can neither be conquered by the former nor permanently held by the latter. They will be independent as they are already self-sustaining. Having happily escaped the curse of slavery, they will never submit themselves to the domination of slaveholders, which prevails in and determines the character of the United States. They will be a Russia behind the United States, which to them will be France and England. But they will be a very different Russia from that which fills all southern Europe with terror, and by reason of reason of that superiority they will be the more terrible to the dwellers in the southern latitudes. "The policy of the United States is to propitiate and secure the alliance of Canada while it is yet young and inquisitive of its future. But on the other hand the policy which the United States actually pursues is the infatuated one of rejecting and spurning vigorous, perennial and ever-growing Canada, while seeking to establish feeble states out of decaying Spanish provinces, on the coast and in the islands of the gulf of Mexico. "I shall not live to see it, but the man is already born who will see the United States move over to all big game hunters, while the story of the success of Jack Miner in attracting wild geese in large numbers to a pond near his home cannot fail to hold the attention and secure the interest of all wild bird lovers. The latter story is a splendid illustration of the success of protection and should encourage all engaged in the work. Mr. Miner has demonstrated the fact that it is possible to succeed with the wary wild goose and success with such shy birds means that efforts in other directions need not spell failure. The importance of the policy of conservation is justified by the illustrated account of the gathering at Toronto University. This policy means more to the future of Canada than the present generation can fully realize and to all interested in the great out of doors it is vital. A full supply of stories appealing to all tastes is included in a number which will prove a fine companion on all vacation trips.

Puzzling Ball Question

Shall I play the hit-and-run or sacrifice hit game? This is the baseball question.
Shall the manager have his men play for one run at a time or shall he scorn the sacrifice and order his players to swing at the ball while the basemen are hiking around the paths?
With speedy boys and agile youngsters under his wing the clever manager bases his hopes of success on "steal and sting."

The beauty of the hit-and-run game is that when the team does not get the "break" two or three runs are likely to result, whereas when the batter lays down a bunt to advance a baserunner to second or third one run only is apt to come across. Griffith, McGraw and Bresnahan are the hit-and-run managers while Chance, Clark and Lake are depending more on the sacrifice hit. Doolin and Dahler are "mixers."
Having poor luck with the hit-and-run style, Manager Chance switched, resorted the sacrifice and played for one run. Seven victories resulted. Says the Chicago News: "The Cubs have done more sacrificing in the last seven games than they did in all the preceding games put together. And it was through advancing the men to second and third bases on these bunts that gave the following players the opportunity to deliver with a hit and count runs which won the games. Combined with this skillful sacrificing and playing of inside ball the Cubs are forcing the opposing pitchers to do some mighty good twirling. They are not swinging at everything that comes over the plate, but are waiting them out. They are getting passes frequently."

A HIGH-HANDED MEASURE

The Advocate in a labored half column attempts to defend its stand on the Sifton deal at Edmonton.

It starts off by "expressing sincere and deep regret that Mr. Cushing was not able to command a majority in the legislature."

Mr. Cushing was not given a chance. The Advocate knows full well Mr. Cushing would have defeated the Rutherford government on the opening of parliament hands down.

The machine at Ottawa could not allow that. They did not want it because an independent, honest administration, run by the people, would have come into existence and machine rule in Alberta would have been at an end.

The Advocate says "the Lieutenant-Governor could neither call in Mr. Cushing with the Government unbated, nor could he compel the Government to resign in Mr. Cushing's favor, nor could he dissolve the House unless on the advice of his ministers." It is wonderful what he couldn't do. But it doesn't tell us what he did do.

He turned out one government and appointed another government in power without asking the sanction of the people, which has no precedent in the history of the Dominion of Canada.

In one breath he accepted the resignation of Premier Rutherford, appointed Mr. Sifton premier and prorogued the House, and for months one man, and that man not a representative of the people, has been in control of this great province and not a man elected by the people has had a word to say in its affairs.

Even the Advocate is constrained in all fairness to remark that "it is not just, nor in accord with representative institutions, that an outside leader should hold the reins of power for three months without the Legislature formally showing he possesses the confidence of a majority of that body, and some remedy ought to be found to provide that such a condition of things as has developed should bring about automatically an appeal to the people."

The Advocate says our remarks with regard to conservation of timber limits were far-fetched and an attempt to discredit Premier Sifton. Not at all. We had no notion of discrediting Premier Sifton. We can safely leave that sort of business to the Advocate. What we said was as an old timer we had noticed Clifford Sifton became a millionaire by securing timber limits which rightly belonged to this province. The people rebelled and the government were wise enough to do away with the evil. Then we showed what a clever manipulator Clifford Sifton was, because he is now one of the strongest men in the Dominion in favor of conservation of timber of which he owns so much, and of course the Advocate falls over itself to fight for him. It stood by his timber deals to the last, it stood by the Rutherford government until like the boy on the burning deck all but he had fled, it then swung to Mr. Cushing so long as there was any hope, and it now is trying hard to get into the good graces of the new Premier.

By the way we were not discrediting the conservation of our vast timber resources. Let them be conserved by all means. What we wished to point out to our readers was that Clifford Sifton is a very clever manipulator and in this deal it was Clifford first and the country afterwards.

BULYEA AND MCINNIS; A COMPARISON.

(Edmonton Journal)

Taking refuge behind the fact that the Lieutenant-Governor, on account of his official position, is not supposed to give any explanation of his conduct in dismissing one government and calling another without giving the people an opportunity to say whether his action meets with public approval or not, the machine press of Alberta is offering various eulogistic frapes on his conduct.

The Edmonton Capital goes so far in its issue of the 17th as to say the whole proceeding "was strictly in accordance with constitutional practice."

This statement is so brazenly, terribly out of line with the facts that it is unworthy of contradiction, notwithstanding that it was not made in a less obscure publication.

There is no precedent in the history of the Dominion of Canada where the Lieutenant-Governor of a province turned one government out and placed another in power without asking the sanction of the people.

The only case that comes anywhere near paralleling the action of Lieutenant-Governor Bulyea is that of the then Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, McInnis, who turned out the Turner-Cotton-Semlin crowd and made Joseph Martin premier.

When McInnis placed Martin in control of the affairs of the province of British Columbia, he did it on the very evident understanding that an election would be held right away. The election was held, and by a combination of elements opposed to him Martin was defeated. McInnis was asked for his resignation at once.

The government which McInnis dismissed was a hybrid government, composed of groups of self-seeking politicians, incompetent as a body to handle the affairs of the province, and nothing but an appeal to the people would straighten out the tangle. McInnis took this method of getting the case before the people, and Martin sought to give the province stable government by the introduction of party-line divisions in that province. Martin failed, and McInnis suffered the consequences; but nevertheless, stable government came out of their actions, even though it was not of the political shade which Martin desired.

The government which Lieutenant-Governor Bulyea dismissed was the government still, notwithstanding anything that may be said to the contrary, and had a right to be considered the government up until the time it might be defeated in the house, in which case it was entitled to the right to go to the people.

Lieutenant-Governor Bulyea did not send the government which he dismissed to the people and he not only did not send the government which he appointed, but he made it impossible for the private members of the house to take the matter in their own hands and compel an election.

Lieutenant-Governor Bulyea did not submit his decision for popular approval, but on the contrary, he did all that his official position would permit him to do to prevent the electorate of the province from having any say about the matter at all.

The constituency chosen by Mr. Sifton, one in which a non-English-speaking foreign element holds a large vote, and the methods which his machine workers are resorting to to secure his election, shows that he is hand in glove with the plot by which the province is being robbed of the right to representative government.

Should Mr. Sifton manage to squeeze in in Vermilion, and should he manage to secure a pre-dominant support in the legislature, the action of the lieutenant-Governor is not yet absolved, for there is still nothing to show that the people any longer have any confidence in the legislature.

If Mr. McInnis merited dismissal because of the appointment of Joseph Martin, what must be said of the lieutenant-Governor of Alberta, who fears to let his action go to the people for their verdict? If, after what he has done to the electorate of Alberta, Lieutenant-Governor Bulyea is still entitled to hold office, then Lieutenant-Governor McInnis should have monuments erected to him and his name emblazoned in the nation's hall of fame as one of Canada's heroes.

The picnic at Hyeron Park last week was a success. The weather could not have been more favorable.

Mr. Widen preached here last Sunday. Mr. Lyons is due Sunday next, and the following week Rev. A. Paterson.

Mrs. Brynner is visiting in Red Deer.

Mrs. Badorf has her father and mother from Oregon on a visit.

Mr. McMillan was again in this district. Government money seems to be tied up and the farmers must live (as they have done for the past eight or ten years) in hope of good roads. Hope certainly is a great thing.

We wish the Premier would hurry up and drive that first spike. We have just about got the hump.

Spain Will Break With the Vatican.

Rupture Imminent on Subject of Church and Non-Catholic Societies

Madrid, June 23.—It is believed that a rupture is imminent in the negotiations between the government and the Vatican on the subject of the Church and non-Catholic religious societies.

Premier Ganalajes has received by telegraph a summary of the Vatican's reply to his proposals and he has had a conference with the king to discuss future action. It is understood that the Vatican's reply is unsatisfactory.

A semi-official note recently issued intimated that if the Vatican insisted on coupling its protest against the royal decree of June 11, with the negotiations to revise the concordat, the government would be obliged to break off all negotiations.

TO LIVE UP TO CONSTITUTION.

Prior to the issuance of this note, the premier declared in the chamber of deputies that the government was resolved to live up to the constitution and settle the religious question from the standpoint of reform.

At a meeting of the Catholic defence societies it was announced that before the policies outlined in the speech from the throne would be permitted to become law, Spain would have to undergo a perilous crisis, as Catholics preferred civil war to the Laic school system. A curial situation is growing in Barcelona and Seville, while the Madrid clericals have begun a strong campaign against the ministry.

SEVEN SCHOOLS CLOSED.

Madrid, June 23.—The government today closed seven schools conducted by the order of Christian Brothers. The action was taken in fulfillment of the royal decree of May 31, which directed that unauthorized religious orders seek immediate authorization under the law of 1887, under pain of dissolution and the closing of their establishments in the event of non-compliance.

Poplar Ridge

A very quiet wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Banton last Tuesday, June 20th at eleven o'clock, when their eldest daughter, Florence Ruth, was married to Edward

Only the immediate members of both families were present. After the wedding breakfast, Mr. and Mrs. Wigmore left for Sylvan Lake, where they are enjoying their honeymoon camping.

Mr. Banton came home from his honeymoon for the wedding and is returning July 1st.

Rev. C. Huestis, of Red Deer, preached Sunday afternoon.

Bert Banton and Tom Hazlett are in Wetaskiwin.

Midnight Special May Be Run Daily After A Trial

New Service on C. & E. Is Meeting With Excellent Patronage.

Each succeeding run of the midnight flyer between Strathcona and Calgary finds the patronage increasing. The success of the trial service thus far is exceeding the expectations of the C. & E. R. officials and there comes a statement from headquarters that providing the traffic is maintained at the present rate for the next few weeks the service will be made daily instead of tri-weekly. There is little doubt that the inauguration of a service both ways every night would meet with splendid success and certainly it would be especially valuable to both Strathcona and Edmonton. With the present service there are scores more of people from points down the C. & E. who take the advantage of spending a day here than they did under the former day service.

Another important announcement regarding the night train is that it may be made a mail carrier before long.

THE BISHOP'S OATH.

To the Editor of the News:—
Dear Sir:—Two weeks ago, your paper published an oath alleged to be taken by the Catholic Bishops of Quebec, which reads with anathemas and damnings and by which all the Protestants are consigned to the bottomless pit.

Trumped up charges of the kind are often made to bring down the wrath upon the Catholic Church. The truth compels me to say, and may be you will be sorry to hear, that the clumsy machine is going to pieces. The alleged oath is a forgery pure and simple. I defy either you, sir, or any other, to tell us readers in which Catholic book the terrible path is to be found, or in which Catholic Bishop, or where and when it has ever been promulgated. Forgery, you must admit, is no weapon for an honest man or a just cause.

Now, Sir, as you took the trouble to print an oath which has never existed, except in the imagination of some Catholic editor, you will certainly, for the sake of the unprejudiced people who look for the truth and don't feed on forgeries, publish the following oath. It is the one pronounced by every Catholic Bishop, the genuine one, one to be found in the Catholic book called "Pontifical".

"I, elected to the episcopate from this hour henceforward, will be obedient to Christ, Peter the Apostle and the Holy Roman Church, and to our Holy Father Pius X, and to his successors canonically elected. I will assist them to retain and defend the Roman Papacy without detriment to my order. I shall take care to promote the rights, honors, privileges and authority of the Holy Roman Church of Our Lord, the Pope and his successors. I shall observe with all my strength and shall cause to be observed by others the rules of this Holy Father, the apostolic decrees, ordinances of dispositions, reservations, provisions and mandates. I shall come when called to a synod, unless prevented by canonical impediment. I shall make personal visits at least once every ten years, and I shall render to Our Holy Father, Pope Pius X, and to his successors, an account of my pastoral office, and of all things pertaining in any manner whatever to the state of my church to the discipline of the clergy and the people, and finally to the salvation of the souls entrusted to me; and, in turn, I shall receive humbly the apostolic mandates and execute them as diligently as possible. But if I shall be detained by canonical impediment I shall fulfill all the aforesaid things through a designated delegate having a special mandate for this purpose, a priest of my diocese, or through some other secular or regular priest of known probity and religion, fully informed concerning the above named things. I shall not sell, nor give, nor mortgage the possessions belonging to my mensa, nor shall I enfeoff them anew or alienate them in any manner even with the consent of the chapter of my church, without consulting the Roman Pontiff. And, if through me, any alienation shall occur, I wish by the very fact to incur the punishments contained in the constitution published concerning this matter. So help me God and these Holy Evangelists of God."

After a perusal of this authentic oath taken by the Catholic Bishops, any fair-minded man cannot help but feel that a cause must be a very poor one when, in order to do it, one has to go so far as to resort to forgery and calumny. It seems to me that the readers of a paper like yours would find it more profitable to be given a greater amount of local news and to be spared that bitter and untrue declaration against one class of their fellow citizens.

Yours very truly,

Stryker, smiling benignly and man angling his lips with the back of his hand, followed the official on deck, added to Kirkwood an intimation that he was prepared to accord him an audience and strolled forward to the waist. The American, mastering his resentment, meekly followed. One must not afford to be naughty when one is asking favors.

Advancing to the rail, the captain whistled in one of the river boats, while the waterman waited, faced his passenger.

"Now, yer 'ginalness, wot can I do for you afore you goes ashore?"

"I think you must have forgotten," said Kirkwood quietly. "I hate to trouble you, but—there that matter of it."

Stryker's face was expressive only of mystified vacuity. "Four quid? I dunno as I know just wot you means."

"You agreed to advance me £4 on those things of mine."

"Hilumination overspread the hollow-jawed countenance. Stryker looked cheerfully at Kirkwood. "You chuckle? You will yer little joke, won't you, now? I declare I never see a lunny with such affable shrewdness."

Kirkwood's eyes narrowed. "Stryker," he said steadily, "give me the £4 and let's have no more nonsense or else hand over my things at once."

"Daffy," Stryker told succinctly, with conviction. "Lor, I've seen 'em ever 'ad 'em enough to escape."

"What do you mean?" he asked. "I've seen 'em ever 'ad 'em enough to escape."

"Just about as much as I gave you that pearl pin," retorted Kirkwood. "What do you mean?"

"W'y, yer luddish, £4 'ud buy yer passage. I thought you understood."

"My passage? But I can come across by steamer for 30 shillings, first class."

"Aw, but them steamers! Tricky, they are, an' unsafe. No, yer geyve, the W. Stryker Packet line, from London to Antwerp, charges £4 per passage an' no reduction for return fare."

Stunned by his effrontery, Kirkwood stared in silence.

"Any complaints," continued the captain, looking over Kirkwood's head toward the boat where the directors in white not more than thirty days after—"

"You do—second!" interpolated Kirkwood thoughtfully.

Stryker's mouth closed with a snap; his features froze in a cast of wrath; his eyes glinted in his small blue eyes.

"W'y," he belated, "you blunder in 'lonic, 'd'y think you can say that to Bill Stryker on 'is own vessel?"

He hesitated a moment, then launched a heavy fist at Kirkwood's face. Unsurprised, the young man side-stepped, caught the hand, bony wrist as the captain lurched by, following his wasted blow, and with a dexterous twist laid him flat on his back with a bounding thump upon the deck.

And the infuriated young man, who had laid with a bound that placed him on his feet and in defensive posture as though the deck had been a spring board, Kirkwood backed up, and the captain and faced him with a challenge.

"Stand clear, Stryker!" he warned the man tensely, himself first, then, "If you move a step closer I swear I'll knock the head off your shoulders! Not another inch, you contemptible whelp, or I'll brain you with this better," he continued as he

He found himself, neither knowing nor caring how, in the arms of the man in the Place Verte, the east vestibule, pile of the cathedral rising on his right, hotels and quiet old world dwellings with dormer roofs and gables and dormer windows, including the other sides of the square. The chimneys he could hear none but those of the cathedral, however, he changed his mind and decided that it was best for the victors to do the spoiling.

His Daughter? I'm sure of it, papa. Why, the first thing he does is to turn tight in the turn for lower.

The Cause? Wags—Yesterday I have been an unfortunate day up your way. I see there were four autos smashed, two trucks overturned, a car derailed and a score of pedestrians hurt.

By Doctor's Orders? Vis-à-vis? What brought you here, my poor man?

Vis-à-vis? Bad medical advice, sir. Vis-à-vis? Yes, sir. Doctor told me to take iron, but I don't like it. I sent him here, Judge.

"A man never knows how many friends he has until he gets into politics," answered Senator Brougham, "nor how few he has until he gets out of office."—Washington Star.

"Parson me, Governor," began the interviewer. "I certainly," replied the Tennessee executive, reaching for a blank. "What are you guilty of?"

met such a riddle, my No. 1, all round, enterprising man as afore!"

It was as if he were carried across the busy Scheldt, the river which of Kirkwood's passion cooled, but the blinding light of his estate ate, corroded, into his soul. Hollow-eyed he glared vacantly at the water, his features wasted with despair.

They came to the landing stage and swung broadside on. Mechanically the American got up and disembarked. At heedless of time and place he moved up the quay to the gangway and so gained the esplanade, where, pausing he thrust a trembling hand into his trousers pocket.

The hand reappeared, displaying in its outspread palm three big, round, brown, British pennies. Staring down at them, Kirkwood's lips moved.

"Bedrock!" he whispered huskily.

CHAPTER XIX.

WITHOUT warning or preface the still evening air was smitten and made softly uneasy by the coming of a dark, ranting chime calling vipers to its brother at Antwerp's hundred bellies.

Like the beating of a mighty heart behind the rushing curtain of the pulses, a single deep-throated bell stroked solemnly six weary, rumbling strokes.

Six o'clock! Kirkwood roused out of his brooding. The Amsterdam express would leave at 6:32, and he knew not what to do.

Striding swiftly across the promenade, he entered a small tobacco shop and made inquiry of the proprietress.

The proprietress, a woman of middle age and of French extraction, who had experienced difficulty in comprehending the good woman's instructions.

For Antwerp, she said, left from the Gare Centrale, a mile or so across the city. Monsieur had plenty of time to spare. There was the time of the train, and he would find the train cars of the Rue Klodier.

Monsieur departed with the more haste since he was unable to reply to this courtesy with the most fitting purchase. After a brisk walk of some fifteen minutes he reached the station.

A public clock reassured him with the information that he had the quarter of seven. It was only one minute past six o'clock (Belgian railway time, always confusing).

Inquiring his way to the Amsterdam train, which was already waiting at the platform, he paced its length, peering brazenly in at the coach windows, now warm with hope, now shivering with disappointment.

He could not but realize that, all else aside, his only chance of rehabilitation lay in meeting Calender, but in none of the coaches or carriages did he discover any one even remotely resembling the fat adventurer, his daughter or Murphy.

Realizing that he had not yet boarded the train, he stood aside, tortured with forebodings, while anxiously scrutinizing each individual of the throng of waiting travelers.

He had been delayed—by the Althea's tardiness in making port, very likely. Perhaps they proposed taking not this train, but the one to Antwerp.

On time, the bell changed its warning, and the train started. He was instantly opened and alarmed, the trucks began to chug, couplings jolting as the engine chafed in constraint.

bear watching.

This was a magical transformation brought about. Instantaneously last-bear watching.

Mrs. Hallam, blissfully ignorant of this surveillance over her movements, took her place in the fire. The driver clucked to his driver, which meant great weakness and depression of spirits, and on the other hand forcing themselves to take nourishment in spite of the acute suffering inflicted by each.

FORCING YOURSELF TO TAKE FOOD

The Tortures of Indigestion Banished by the Tonic Powers of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

Victims of indigestion have small choice between two evils—on the one hand a starvation diet, which means great weakness and depression of spirits, and on the other hand forcing themselves to take nourishment in spite of the acute suffering inflicted by each.

GRAHAM WHITE, AVIATOR.

Rejected the Army to Become a Pioneer in Motoring.

Mr. Graham White strikes one as a typical flying man. Young (he is only thirty-five), tall, and lithe, he looks as hard as nails, and gives the impression of being practically without nerves.

He was originally intended for the army, but his taste lay in the direction of aviation, and he followed his inclination. His love of sport is inherited, his father being a famous yachtsman. At Bedford Grammar School young Graham White is chiefly remembered for his success as a cyclist.

When fifteen he and his brother were joint owners of a small motor-car, and his experiences with this machine tempted him to the motor industry. He not only established a business for making motor-cars, but he faced them, winning many prizes.

From motoring to aviation was but a natural step. His early experience with motors was, of course, of considerable service to him in his flying career. His connection with aviation

Keys of Whisky Help on Machine Methods.

The fight in Vermilion has been keen the past week, and Mr. Clark, the former candidate, has put up a good fight. Of course he could not be expected to stand a show against a man of Premier Sifton's stamp. Although the constituency is almost entirely farmers, a great many broads and foreigners live there and they are entirely under government control. Then the usual Liberal methods of winning an election are being used. Whisky, beer, cigars and tobacco have been freely dispensed and the dark lantern brigade has been trapping the side lines with pockets bulging with money to buy up the electors.

Senator Peter T. McLeod, Dr. Clark, M. P., and many other prominent Liberals have been working hard for Mr. Sifton and he will no doubt be elected to-day. But the contest shows that the Liberal party has but one way of conducting a political campaign and that way is to resort to any expedient to win. The people will eventually condemn such tactics as they condemn the Ruthless administration, and now that they are on to the job they will not wait as long as they have in the past to put the Sifton administration where it belongs, in the soup.

The following despatch was received last week:

Vermilion, June 18th.—That Premier Sifton, until a few weeks ago chief justice of the province of Alberta, is determined to carry the constituency of Vermilion in the coming by-elections, by the methods that they may, as is evident from the way his campaign is at this early stage shaping itself.

On Thursday last James McGeorge, of Edmonton, an old time organizer arrived in town and was in conference with the leaders of the party for a day or two. At the same time there reached the town from the Minister Donald Irvine, who holds a roving commission as license inspector from the government of which Premier Sifton is now the head. Irvine was an important factor in the general election in the Alexander (Lloydminster) district and his notorious political tactics there will be carried on here in already in evidence.

That there will be an attempt made to debauch the foreign vote in the north districts, just as was done in the general elections, has come to the knowledge of the Conservative worker. A day or two ago a team of election workers for Premier Sifton started north with a keg of beer, a case of whisky and any quantity of campaign cigars and tobacco. A similar load went into the south district, probably at the behest of Senator Talbot, who is working there in the interests of his friend the premier. Similar "inducement" for the electors to vote for Premier Sifton have gone out from Mannville and Innisfree, and preparations are being made to send out more as may be needed. These "policies" of Premier Sifton are being accompanied by the usual number of workers, like Donald Irvine and James McGeorge, who have been imported into the district for the election under the instructions of Sifton's machine. This is the sort of campaign which the Liberals are carrying on in Vermilion.

It must be said of the leaders of the Liberal party here that they have absolutely no use for this method of warfare and that they disapprove of it; but, unfortunately, the machine at Edmonton is managing the affairs of Donald Irvine's presence in Vermilion is with the utmost evident approval of Premier Sifton and of the department of justice for the province of Alberta.

A Striking Change

She used to strike his fancy in the days of long ago as housewife from the schoolhouse they strolled in the evening. He courted her and wed her, but they weren't nicely paired, and things that later happened—well, they oughtn't to be aired. As maiden she was quiet, full of comeliness and grace. She used to strike his fancy; now, alas, it is his face.

Pat's Rejoinder.

A British warship recently found it necessary to call at a military port on the coast of Ireland. Tommy Atkins, meeting a full-blurred Irish tar in the street a couple of hours later, said:

"Pat, when are you going to place your wife in the rear of the ship?"

"When you place your tongue on the civil list," was the Irish sailor's reply.—London Tri-Bits.

Washing House Plants.

How to Keep Them Healthy and Free From Insects.

If after taking flowers into the house you discover the troublesome pest, aphids, the forerunners of chrysanthemum, green flies and tiny red spiders, begin at once to kill them. Many are dangerous. These pests can be stopped only by using some strong solution that will kill insects and destroy the eggs. If a small can of hair brush is dipped into alcohol and the haunts of these pests are washed out with the solution, followed with a tobacco wash, clean plants will be insured. Do not permit this water to run into the earth, for alcohol will kill some plants. Have a piece of oil cloth, cut a hole in the centre and all one side to the edge. This can be wrapped around the plant to prevent the water going into the crook. This is also an excellent method when cleaning flowers in the kitchen sink, for the dirt does not overflow when the plant is protected with the oil cloth covering.

The red spider can be killed with pure water, but this process requires that the entire plant be immersed. This is easily done, as the water does not change a number of times. Do not leave one plant untouched, but clean all at the same time. Just as the aphids and red spiders are numbers, and the aphids to-day would be a past generation in the flower, the accumulation of these little pests should be fought from the time the flowers are taken into the house. No flower collector, insect or more rapidly than ivy. The fragile leaves and stems are alive with them, for which reason ivy should be kept out of the collection of rare plants. Flowers with large leaves should be washed with a small soft brush and keep it for the purpose of washing the flower leaves. It cleans under the leaves and between the stems and stalks.

TRADE DISEASES.

Different Occupations to Which Different Ailments Attach.

Every man who works for a long time at any one of scores of industrial trades is pretty nearly sure to contract sooner or later, the bodily disease that is connected with his occupation. Some of these maladies are mysterious. Many are dangerous. Bakers generally have bad teeth; the flour dust collects on the teeth, becomes acid and gives rise to a special kind of decay. Bakers, too, owing to their irregular life, sleeping in the day and working at night, and because of the hot air and dust they breathe, are great victims of consumption. Boilermakers lose their hearing from the continual racket in which they have to labor. Those men who work around breweries look strong and healthy, but the beer that they drink ruins their livers, and they generally die before reaching middle age.

One of the peculiar diseases that is tied temporarily to its host and to which a man is immune after having experienced it once is "brass foundry fever." The workers of the new employees of brass foundries experience it. They have severe chills and headaches, cough a great deal and then develop a high fever; the illness passes in a day or so. It is caused by the inhalation of metallic dust or vapors of zinc or copper.

Blacksmiths suffer from paralysis of the entire right side, due to the continual shock of hammering, and their eyes become weak from the glare of the fire. Professional cooks are also subject to impairment of the eyesight; they have to open oven doors continually to see how whatever they are baking or roasting is progressing, and the outrush of the suppressed volume of heated vapor affects their eyes.

The strong tones of naphtha are a little less deadly than those of chloroform. "Naphtha intoxication" is peculiar to those employed in the manufacture of this product and to those who use it largely in cleaning establishments and in rubber factories. Furniture polishers are generally picked out in a crowd on account of the eczema which covers their faces, arms and face. This is supposed to be due to impure alcohol used in the polishes.

Mrs. Linton, sister-in-law of Mrs. R. L. The descriptive remarks of the way natives live in these countries was most vivid and was listened to with rapt attention by the congregations. It is rumored R. L. Gaetz will go south with Mrs. Linton.

SELLING SPECTACLES.

That is quite easy. Anyone can do it, provided a willing purchaser is found. To properly measure a refractive error, and scientifically adjust correctly ground lenses to the eyes in such a way as to remove all discomfort of vision is, however, quite a different matter. It requires much knowledge, experience and common sense. To obtain that one knows all there is to know about this or any subject is rather foolish. It is the record that counts.

Many years' successful experience justifies me in soliciting your patronage.
